Drums Along the Rapidan

Men, Women and War in Virginia, May 1864

With Retired Brigadier General, John Mountcastle

For our final gathering of 2005, we welcome John W. Mountcastle, Retired Brigadier General and Former Chief of Military History for the United States Army.

Jack will discuss the Overland Campaign of 1864, that pitted Robert E. Lee's Army of Northern Virginia against the Union Army of the Potomac commanded by George G. Meade and directed by Ulysses S. Grant. The principal focus of this talk will be the impact of war upon American soldiers, their families and loved ones in the North and South. He will share his insights into the character and values of our 19th Century American ancestors during the third spring of our great national conflict.

We hope you will join us!
